Transfer Students
Johnson & Wales University has 1,100 international students from more than 90 foreign countries enrolled at its campuses nationwide. Approximately 25 percent of J&W’s new international students transfer from postsecondary schools around the world, many of which have formal transfer credit agreements with Johnson & Wales. To find out how many of your credits will transfer, you will need to provide us with your mark sheets, grades and transcripts. Credit will be awarded for courses you have completed with a grade of "C" or better that are similar in level and content to courses at Johnson & Wales that apply to your program. Scholarships are available for transfer students.

English Language Programs
J&W’s English Language Institute at our Providence Campus provides year-round instruction in the English language and offers credit towards a degree. English language programs are also offered at Denver and N. Miami through ELS Language Centers, the oldest and largest U.S.-based intensive English as a Second Language program. Our English language program lets you focus on the areas where you need the most improvement. As you become more skilled in English, you will be eligible to attend regular classes toward your degree.
